The editors eschew doubtful rankings, portraying only the leading German commercial law firms. Apart from the fields of law covered, criteria such as the history and development of the law firm, publications, legal articles and teaching activities as well as the partnership as an employer also play an important role here.

GRP Rainer is characterised as a "full service commercial law firm for modern small and medium sized businesses?" which provides its clients with comprehensive commercial advice with a focus on company and tax law, banking and capital market law as well as intellectual property rights. It is therefore a point of contact for internationally operating small and medium sized companies, supporting them across all legal, financial and tax related issues. Lean structures, direct points of contact and advising clients on their own premises where possible are among the pillars of the firm's philosophy. This has been "a complete success in every respect?", says "Kanzleien in Deutschland?".

GRP Rainer now assists clients from Australia, the USA and, of course, in European countries outside Germany. Extensive language skills in English, French, Spanish and Portuguese ensure that language barriers do not exist in practice and enable smooth collaboration between all parties involved.

The editors of "Kanzleien in Deutschland?" drew a positive conclusion on GRP Rainer.
