Career Jump-Start with a Part-Time MBA. HHL Scores Again in the Financial Times Ranking

Listed only for the second time ever in the Executive MBA Ranking of the Financial Times, HHL Leipzig Graduate School of Management achieves top rankings with its part-time MBA program for salary increase after graduation (almost 60 percent). HHL achieves an outstanding sixth place ranking worldwide for the career progress of its graduates. In this category, points are awarded for promotions within a company or a change of companies, which was facilitated by the MBA degree.

The FT Executive MBA 2014 Ranking awards HHL 81st place and rates a total of 100 business schools. It is considered to be one of the most comprehensive and significant of its kind internationally for Executive MBA programs with a focus on General Management.

The ranking uses data from two surveys. One polls the university alumni who graduated three years ago about their current situation. The other one is conducted by the schools themselves. Assessment criteria for the ranking are, among other things, salaries and career figures as well as internationality and the structure of the school or program.
