Bonneshof Office Center to feature building equipment from YIT in Germany
Specialist in building technology and facility services, YIT Germany GmbH, has been commissioned to fit the Bonneshof Office Center (BOC) in Düsseldorf with technical building equipment, a contract worth over 77 million. YIT will be installing the heating, air-conditioning, sanitation, ventilation, electrical, control engineering, and sprinkler systems in the five-story office building located in the Kennedydamm area. The architectural firm RKW Architektur + Städtebau designed the new BOC building as an extension to the existing Tersteegen office building (TOC).
The plans include systems that are both eco-friendly and conserve resources. YIT will be installing a combined heat and power plant, a hybrid cooling tower, and a highly efficient heat recovery system. A core temperature control system will also be used to provide energy-efficient, affordable cooling and heating.
The boilers boast an output of 460 kW and feed the underfloor heating, while ventilation is maintained using a variety of systems with a capacity of approximately 30,000 m/h. YIT Germany GmbH will also be installing the complete high and low-voltage current supply and providing the control engineering systems for the full range of building technology. YIT has also been entrusted to equip the public areas of the building with around 1,500 sprinklers.
